June 2011

Dear Canadian Union of Postal Workers:

On behalf of PSAC local 901, representing over 1200 graduate-student teaching assistants and fellows, we would like to express our solidarity with your efforts to keep good jobs and high quality public service at Canada Post in the face of a lockout by management and threats of back-to-work legislation by the Prime Minister's Stephen Harper's federal government.

As unionized public sector workers, we recognize the invaluable importance of your union and its role at the forefront of securing better working conditions and benefits for your members and all public sector workers.

We stand by your refusal to accept two-tier wages and benefits, the rolling back of hard-won sick leave benefits and pensions, as well your union's ongoing opposition to privatization which threatens public sector workers and public services as a whole. We applaud your efforts to maintain good jobs at the Canada Post Corporation for the next generation of postal workers and a defiant, inspiring example of solidarity for all Canadian workers in a period of economic austerity declared by employers and governments.

In the face of the federal government's threats of back-to-work legislation, we also support without reservation your right to a fair collective bargaining with an employer which has been profitable for sixteen consecutive years.

In solidarity,

Executive
